

- Students during practice sessions in the library become experts on the country they are practicing and become familiar with typical sources.
- On Unite the Nations Project Day , students receive the questions from the country they have been practicing...or at least a country in the same geographic region.
- On Unite the Nations Project Day, all of the multiple choice questions from each country are posted on line for all to see.
- To assist with research, there has been electronic copies of the test available and sent out.
- Once the questions are received, they could be printed, photocopied and distributed to each student research team.
- On Unite the Nations Project Day, the students should verify their answers with an adult when they have reached a response.
- When an answer is verified it is given to a central recorder who marks the answers onto the school's final answer sheet and records that answer on the website test. In this manner you are completing the test as you go versus inputting over 200 answers at the end of research time.
- As the questions for each country are completed, students are reassigned to assist those with the more challenging questions.
- Once all questions are verified and answered (leave no blanks for they count against you) submit the final answers to the testing site.
